Fund Manager Commentary

European macroeconomic data continued to deteriorate during March. The European Central Bank (ECB) revised 2019 growth forecasts down 'substantially' whilst other global central banks adopted a more dovish tone. The defensive sectors of Consumer Staples, Real Estate and Healthcare were the best performers. Companies in these sectors tend to pay a high dividend which in this low interest rate environment is more attractive and they trade on higher multiples. Therefore they are more likely to be labelled 'growth' investments. As a result 'value' style investments underperformed 'growth' for the month. Our key overweight allocation to Telecommunication stocks was a positive, but did not offset the detrimental underweight to Consumer Staples. At a company level, Merck KGAA and Novartis were the best contributors to fund performance as both announced takeover bids. Merck are attempting to acquire Versum, a materials company that supplies components for semiconductors. Novartis have bid for anti-inflammatory drug IFM Tre to expand their immune system offering. Negative contribution came from Draegerwerk AG, following disappointing results and a dividend cut. Mining company Imerys fell on an increased likelihood of lawsuits against its now bankrupt talc division, which supplied Johnson & Johnson, who are being sued for cancer claims.
